I. What does that mean in "English"?

The macro \tdocinEN and its starred version are useless for English speakers because they have the following effects.

```
Cool and top stand for \tdocinEN*{cool} and \tdocinEN{top}.

Cool and top stand for "cool" and "top" in english.
```

The macro $\tooline{the macro}$ and its starred version are based on $\tooline{the macro}$: for example, "semantic" is obtained via the theorem and its starred version are based on $\tooline{the macro}$.

Note. As the text "in English" is translated into the language indicated when tutodoc is imported, the macro \tdocineN and its starred version become useful for non-English speakers.
